

Center for Health Humanities and Ethics
Program in Biomedical Ethics
School of Medicine
University of Virginia

2021 Summer Biomedical Ethics Internship

The Program in Biomedical Ethics at the Center for Health Humanities and Ethics at the University of Virginia School of Medicine invites applications for the 2021 summer Biomedical Ethics Internship Program. Interns will have the opportunity to work closely with the Program's multidisciplinary faculty on a wide range of topics in clinical, research, and health policy ethics. These include, but are not limited to neuroethics, disorders of consciousness, clinical ethics consultation, interprofessional clinical ethics education, end-of-life decision making, rights to refuse medical treatment, reproductive ethics, and ethical issues in adolescence. Interns will work directly with faculty mentors on projects of mutual interest or pre-established projects. Additional opportunities such as weekly bioethics seminars, observation of clinical ethics consultations, and participation in weekly Ethics/Moral Distress Consult Service meetings are available. The internships are seven weeks duration, beginning Tuesday, June 1 and ending Friday, July 30.

Stipends

The Summer Internship can provide stipends of $2,800 apiece for two students. Students who do not need financial support are also invited to apply. Housing, health care and transportation are not included in the internship.

Requirements

Applicants should be rising 3rd or 4th year undergraduates, or recently graduated undergraduates with course work or related experience in bioethics. They should have an interest in biomedical ethics, and concrete career goals to which the study of biomedical ethics applies. Applicants should demonstrate interest in biomedical ethics through coursework, independent study, scholarship or clinical experience.

Applicants must submit: an application form, a letter of intent outlining his/her interest in the field of bioethics, a resume/curriculum vitae, a writing sample such as a paper written for a course, a letter of recommendation from a former professor/mentor, and a current transcript. The letter of recommendation should be sent directly from the professor/mentor to Ms. Carrie Gumm. The deadline for applications for the 2021 summer program is midnight, March 31, 2021.

Applicants will be chosen based on demonstrated interest in the field of biomedical ethics; scholarly aptitude based on course work, writing samples, and recommendations by mentors/professors; and their ability to contribute to the intellectual community of the Program in Biomedical Ethics of the Center for Health Humanities and Ethics.

Completed applications/documents should be sent to Carrie Gumm at cg2b@virginia.edu

2019 Summer Biomedical Ethics Internship Program
Center for Biomedical Ethics & Humanities

Application Form

Instructions: Return the completed application to Carrie Gumm at cg2b@virginia.edu by email attachment, no later than: March 1, 2019.

Name (last, first, middle): _____

Mailing Address: _____

Email Address: _____ Phone: _____

Birth Date: _____ Citizenship _____

Major(s): _____ Minor: _____

Concentration: _____ GPA: _____

Academic year (circle one): Third Year Fourth Year

College or University where you are currently enrolled: _____

Reference: We will need to be able to contact a faculty member, teaching assistant, employer, or another person who can offer an evaluation of you and your work.

Name of Reference _____ Title _____

Email Address of Reference _____ Telephone _____

This person has agreed to write an evaluation if requested: yes no