

Fill-in-the-Blank Story

#1

It was a dark and stormy night. I was watching TV in the _____ room in the house when Dad yelled "Time for bed!" I begged "Please can I just have _____ number

more minutes?" "No, you need to go to bed right now," Dad answered, "and don't forget to brush your _____."
body part

I went upstairs and put on my favorite _____ with pictures of _____ article of clothing color plural animals. I squirted toothpaste on my toothbrush and started brushing. " _____!" funny noise

I screamed, "this tastes terrible!" I looked at the tube of toothpaste and realized I accidentally squirted _____ on my toothbrush. Oh no!
something yucky

"Help! Help! I just put _____ on my toothbrush!" Dad ran to the same yucky thing phone and called the Poison Center. They were very nice and _____ and did not laugh at me. They told Dad to _____ adjective (description) action my mouth and not to worry. What a relief! From now on I will look very _____ before brushing to make sure I do not make a mistake.

Adverb (description of an action)

I think the Poison Center deserves a big _____ object

Fill-in-the-Blank Story

#2

Every Saturday I go to my Grandma's house. We have the best time!

We always make _____ cookies and play my favorite game:

type of food

_____. Then I take her _____ pet _____ for a walk.

Silly word

adjective

animal

After lunch we take naps. My grandma usually naps for _____.

amount of time

Last Saturday, while she was napping, I decided to surprise her by cleaning her kitchen. I mopped the _____ and emptied the part of a house

_____. As I was clearing all of the _____ off of the counter, noun plural noun

I saw a jar of candy. They looked like they were _____ - flavored.

type of food

My favorite! I _____ unscrewed the lid and poured _____ adverb

number

candies into my hand. I was just about to eat them when I heard my Grandma scream "_____!" It scared me and I dropped them all

silly word

onto the floor. "That's not candy, that's medicine!" my Grandma said.

"I take it for my sore _____." I learned a very _____ lesson body part

adjective

that day. Always _____ first before eating something you find. It might not be what you think it is. It could make you _____!

verb

adjective